Xiaomi launched Redmi Note 8 Series New Delhi, angle lens with a 120-de-setup at the rear. It has 48MP

Chinese conglomerate Wednesday Xiaomi on Wednesday launched Redmi Note 8 and 8 Pro smartphones with four-camera rear setup in India. Redmi Note 8 will be available in 6GB+64GB and 6GB+128GB storage variants for Rs 9,999 and Rs

12,999.respectively. Redmi Note 8 Pro will be available in three vari-— 6GB+64GB, 6GB+128GB and 8GB+128GB — for Rs 14,999, Rs 15,999 and Rs

17,999,respectively.

Both the phones will be available for sale on October 21 at 12 noon via Mi.com, Amazon.in and Mi Home stores.

"Redmi Note series has been a true disruptor since Redmi Note launch in 2014. We are excited to launch Redmi Note 8 Pro which sets a benchmark for gaming and imaging with the world's first 64MP camera sensor and Helio G90T chipset," said Manu Jain, Vice President, Xiaomi and Managing Director, Xiaomi

The four-camera setup on 8 Pro includes a 64MP main camera, an ultra-wide gree field of view, a depth sensor and a macro lens that allows you to go as close as 2cm to the subject for photos as well as videos.

Redmi Note 8 Pro houses a 20MP selfie shooter. The device has full HD+ 16.5 cm (6.53) Dot Notch display with a 19.5:9 ultra high-resolution pri-mary camera, an 8MP ultrawide camera, 2MP macro lens and 2MP depth sensor. On the front, Redmi Note 8 houses a 13MP selfie camera. It houses Qualcomm's Snapdragon 665 mobile platform offers great performance while maintaining aspect ratio and 4500mAh

battery (with 18W charger). The device comes with Amazon Alexa built-in. It is the world's first smartphone with "Dual Wake" feature which allows it to interact with both Google Assistant and Amazon Alexa simultaneously. The Redmi Note 8 has 48MP quad camera power efficiency, backed by a 4000mAh battery with 18W charging over Type-C out of the box.

The company also launched Mi Air Purifier for Rs 6,499. Xiaomi also announced the Mint Keyboard for MIUI users, which supports over 25 Indian lan-

US stocks close higher amid strong earnings season

New York,

US stocks closed higher, as the market was supported by a cheering start of the third-quarter corporate earnings season and modest manufacturing data of New York State.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 237.44 points, or 0.89 per cent, to 27,024.80. The S&P 500 increased 29.53 points, or 1.00 per cent, to 2,995.68. The Nasdaq Composite Index rallied 100.06 points, or 1.24 per cent, to 8,148.71, Xinhua news agency reported on Tuesday.

Nine of the 11 primary S&P 500 sectors traded higher around market close, with the health care sector up nearly 1.8 per cent, leading the winners.

The vast majority of the blue-chip stocks extended gains around the closing bell, with shares of UnitedHealth Group and JPMorgan Chase up 8.16 per cent and 3.01 per cent respectively, leading the advancers. The current earnings season was unveiled by the release of stronger-than-expected corporate performance in the third quarter from J.P. Morgan Chase, Johnson & Johnson, UnitedHealth, BlackRock, and Citigroup.

Yet earnings results from Goldman Sachs and Wells Fargo came shy of market

On the economic front, business activity grew slightly in New York State, according to firms responding to the October 2019 Empire State Manufacturing Survey released on Monday.

New York's Empire State manufacturing index climbed to 4.0, up 2 points from September, driven by rising shipments and a small increase in new orders.

Meanwhile, investors digested the lowering forecast for global economic growth by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which was pegged at a rate of 3 per cent for 2019, marking the slowest pace since the global financial crisis.

Amazon's consumer business fully sheds Oracle, moves on AWS some time. AWS CEO Andy Jassy in

In what could give the ongoing bitter war between Cloud majors Oracle and Amazon Web Services (AWS) a rest, Amazon has announced it has completely shed legacy Oracle databases and its entire consumer business is now running on its own AWS da-

"I am happy to report that this database migration effort is now complete. Amazon's consumer business just turned off its final Oracle database (some third-party applications are tightly bound to Oracle and were not migrated)," Jeff Barr, Chief Evangelist for AWS, Amazon's Cloud computing arm announced late Monday.The company said it migrated 75 petabytes (one PB is 1,000 terabytes) of internal data stored in nearly 7,500 Oracle data-> tional Database Service (RDS), and Amazon Redshift. "The migrations were accomplished with little or no downtime, and covered 100 per cent of our proprietary systems. This includes complex purchasing, catalogue management, order fulfillment, accounting, and video streaming workloads," Barr informed.

November said that Amazon will take off all its workloads from Oracle databases by the end of 2019 and put those on its own database offerings.

"AWS decided to offload Oracle as its Cloud vendor and would soon be 100 per cent reliable without the need of hosting Amazon workloads on Oracle Cloud.

"Over the years we realised that we were spending too much time managing and scaling thou-sands of legacy Oracle databases," said Barr.

More than 100 teams in Amazon's Consumer business participated in the migration effort.

These included Alexa, Amazon Prime, Amazon Prime Video, Amazon Fresh, Kindle, Amazon Music, Audible, Shopbop, Twitch and Zappos, as well as internal teams. According to Amazon, the migration has resulted in cost reduction, performance improvements and lowered administrative overhead. "We reduced our database costs by over 60 per cent on top of the heavily discounted rate we negotiated based on our scale. Customers regularly report cost savings of 90 per cent by switching from Oracle to AWS," said Barr. "Latency of our consumer-facing applications was reduced by 40 per cent and the switch to managed services reduced database admin overhead by 70 per cent," he added.

LinkedIn 'Events' tool to ensure safe online conversations

Microsoft-owned professional networking platform LinkedIn is set to launch a'Made in India' feature called 'Events' that will allow members create and attend events directly on both the app as well the web.

LinkedIn Events will be available on October 17 globally, starting first with English-speaking markets. It will roll out to non-English markets later. The USP of the product is the ability to enable safe online conversations and offline events. With the new feature, members would be able to meet and talk to a like-minded group of members with ease by having control of the attendee list, Ajay

Datta, Head of Product, LinkedIn India told IANS.

Huge demand for 5G in India: Ericsson

New Delhi,

There is a huge demand for 5G in India as it is much more efficient and will enable the telecom operators in the country to manage the explosive data growth expected in the coming three to four years, a top Ericsson executive has said.

"There is a demand for 5G and there is a need. Just look around India Mobile Congress 2019 and you will see that everyone wants to touch and feel 5G. They want to understand how this technology can solve our problems," Nitin Bansal, Head of Ericsson India, told IANS during an interaction at IMC 2019. With 5G commercial networks being switched on, the first use cases would be enhanced mobile broadband, which will bring better experiences for smartphone users, and fixed wireless access, providing fibre speeds without fibre to homes."
